7. Are there any changes or additions that you think should be made to the Social Ethics (PSHE/RSE) policy or curriculum?

- No, I think as long as everything is age appropriate, I don't mind anything.
- Peer pressure
- Should have more of it
- Smear test screening
- Parents should be given input into what is included or not included in the content of these lessons.

8. How confident do you feel that this curriculum will help keep your child safe online?

9. Thank you for answering Question 8. Please explain your reasoning.

(Edited responses)

- online safety is very difficult as a parent always worrying they chatting to people their age but never knowing if it is
- Comprehensive lessons and teachers who are happy to answer any questions
- I feel somewhat confident that this curriculum will help to keep my children safe online.
- The conversations we have with our son discussing his understanding and experience of online safety is interesting. Although he has the info, it's about having the confidence to predict what he would do in any situation re online safety
- They will have a clear understanding of what is appropriate however I feel they will still be curious and look up things like pornography online if there are no parental controls.
- It keeps them aware and knowledgeable about social vices and how they should respond or communicate their fears or feelings to person that can be of help.
- I think with all the information a child is getting, hopefully they will be safe.
- In this day and age with teen pregnancy etc children need to be educated and given real facts.
- Teenagers are inquisitive and explore, sadly no level of education can keep them 100% safe online but the school with parental support gives students as much knowledge as possible for keeping safe
- By explaining what content being looked at could result in them being contacted by the police.
- Some children will be curious to look at things that may not be suitable regardless of what they have learned in the lesson. Parental guidance and supervision is required to protect children online.
- This will help to allow them to freely talk about online safety
